“ I could write a book about all of the memories I have with my aunt, but I do wish I could have made memories with her as an adult. When you grow up and move 700 and some miles away you lose touch with family members and unfortunately that's what happened with us. When I was growing up she was always in my life and even when I wasn't with my dad she would always reach out to check on me or offer for me to come by her. She was such an amazing aunt and even tho my mom and didn't live the same lifestyle or believed in the same religion she never judged us or treated us any different. I always felt loved by her. We lost a wonderful woman and my dad, mamaw and papaw gained the perfect angel.
