Joyce Alderman, 70 years of age, of London, Kentucky, passed away peacefully on Tuesday, October 29, 2024, at the Crestwood Ridge Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, in Hillsboro, OH.

Joyce was born on March 31, 1954, in New Haven, Connecticut. Her birth mother's name was Ruth Hayes. Joyce was the adopted daughter of the late Elaine (Goodman) and Bernard Alderman. She was predeceased by her sister, Carol Graubart of New Jersey and stepmother, Patricia Devonshire Alderman. Missing her are her sisters and brothers-in-law, Susan Alderman and Carey Koplowitz of London, KY and Susan Graubart and Rob Hodges of Shamong, NJ; and her brother and sister-in-law, John and Susan Graubart of Tabernacle, NJ, and many beloved nieces and nephews. Joyce is forever in our hearts.

Joyce had a smile for everyone and loved her family, her friends, her caregivers, and her cats. She resided in Connecticut, Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, Kentucky and Ohio and lived a happy and adventurous life. She was a student at Cherry Hill High School West, Class of 1972. During her lifetime, Joyce was amazed at the changes, from black and white photos & tv to hand-held technology, the first Man-on-the-Moon to journeys through the cosmos. She first saw the Beatles, her favorite band, on their Ed Sullivan Show premiere on February 9, 1964 and even hitch-hiked her way up to Woodstock, NY for the August 15-18, 1969 music festival! Joyce loved to travel! According to Joyce's wishes, she will be cremated with private family remembrance.
