“ My dear sister and formidable Scrabble opponent, we will so miss your physical presence, but your spirit will always shine on in our hearts and minds. Your love will shine on in your precious children and in their children. It will stay with us in the kind words you shared and in the wit and wisdom that you shared. Memories of your candor and your sass will bring joy to those who miss you so dearly. You faced so many challenges, yet you emanated kindness, joy, and compassion. Though your body can no longer go on, may your spirit soar. Love you, always. K.
